Biography

"Inside each of us there is a giant of possibility, my job is to wake it up"
Jason W. Sisneros

Jason's career in the field of motivation, sales, influence, and persuasion began with the most prestigious organization in the industry, the Anthony Robbins Companies. Jason shot through the ranks, working as one of Tony's Peak performance consultants.

Jason is now one of the most sought out speakers on the circuit today! He has built an amazing reputation in the arena of mega speakers and can be seen through out the nation as a keynote speaker at seminars, conventions, retreats, workshops and corporate trainings.

Jason has had an intriguing rise to the top of his profession. He has become an extremely relevant force in the field of long term change and next level attainment. He did so, not through a traditional education, but through what he calls a PhD in street smarts (poor, hungry and determined). Raised in an environment of drugs, abuse and a lack mentality, Jason traveled a road most of us only read about. From several broken noses, being kidnapped, witnessing family members held at gunpoint to ultimately watching the person responsible for all of this, his adoptive father, go to prison for the attempted murder of his mother and himself; he developed a unique view of the world. After living a life that included dealing drugs, being stabbed, spending time in jail, being homeless, and ultimately contemplating suicide, he reached a cross-roads. From that point on in his life, Jason became passionate about researching what causes people to behave as they do. By having to overcome 30 years of negative programming in his life, he became his own first client.

In less than four years, Jason has held over 1500 workshops on the Psychology of Success in front of distinguished audiences ranging from 50 to more than 5000 people at a time. Thus far he has reached over 500,000 people worldwide, representing companies such as, Toyota, Remax, American Express, Quixtar, Washington Mutual, Visa, United Airlines, and multiple Chambers of Commerce . Many non-profits have invited him to be the keynote speaker for their annual fund raising events. His unique brand of leadership and life coaching is a blend of Brain Mechanics, Quantum Theory, Neuro Linguistic Programming, hypnosis, and cutting edge information on influence. Through real world experiences and with phenomenal results, he has developed his premier company The Jason Sisneros Companies, Inc., a consultant firm focused on cutting edge sales processes and next level attainment catering to vision focused companies in search of a powerful answer to the question of "How do we get to the next level?" He focuses on the individuals, the team dynamics, and the vision and direction of the company to customize programs that have impact rather than cookie cutter approaches that leave CEO's and management with less money and little to no long term benefits.

His book "Destiny's Doorstep, 7 Keys to Unlocking the Ultimate You" is currently making waves among those who seek long term change and the path to personal awareness. It chronicles a life of challenge and gives real answers to real problems ranging from personal sabotage to implementing a corporate culture of winning with integrity. "Destiny's Doorstep" is available through Jason's website www.jasonsinneros.com.

Jason truly believes he is finally living God's purpose for his life, to serve others at the highest level possible while enjoying every breath.

Today, as the founder and president of The Jason Sisneros Companies, LLC., Jason manages both publishing and speaking engagements throughout the U.S.
